

LAIKA

Pieter designed these “Laika” hanging lamps featuring Bohemian crystal globes and brass construction in the spirit of the late 60’s-early 70’s. The music of David Bowie teleported him back to the days in which “space” was part of a general fascination. Designing can be all about this: immersing yourself completely in a sense, emotion or zeitgeist and move from there. It is about testing your imagination, reinventing yourself, and like space actually, it is mysterious and elusive which makes it part of the draw. With its sleek silhouettes and curved edges, “Laika” clearly shows space-inspired aesthetics. It is a highly adaptable design, customizable in many compositions and colour combinations, with globes available in 3 sizes.

These hanging lamps lend themselves superbly for customization. Make your own arrangement of globes by mixing different sizes and height levels.

Our choice of square and rectangular shaped ceiling plates allow for numerous design possibilities and compositions.

We are always happy to think along in designing the best combination of lamps for your specific situation!
